OPINION AND COMMENT

"The movement which has started here must inevitably make its impression on the life of the State. I am deeply grateful to every one who has attended. No one can go away without the feeling that he has caught here ideas and inspiration, which, put in terms of action, will make living far better in this State than ever before."

In these words Governor T. W. Bickett concluded the first session of the State and County Council held at the University during the week September 15-19. Three hundred public welfare workers representing seventy-six counties were present and carried out a program rarely equaled in seriousness and inspirational values. In bringing the conference to the University under the joint auspices of the Governor of the State, the University, the Association of County Commissioners, and the State departments of Education, Health, Public Welfare, Taxation, and Roads, the University has laid the foundation for a service of untold value to North Carolina.

Last year, owing to the confusion incident to the inauguration of the S.A.T.C. and the outbreak of influenza, no formal celebration of University Day was held. Plans for the celebration, this year, however, have been completed, and throughout the State and nation Carolina men are making unusual preparations for especially happy gatherings.

The celebration at the Hill will be held on Saturday, October 11th, with Hon. F. D. Winston, '79, as principal speaker. In many of the towns, through the effort of Mr. A. M. Coates, secretary of the Graham Memorial Committee, special meetings have been arranged in addition to the usual smokers and banquets and informal gatherings.

In order that the big family of sons may hear from each other directly, THE REVIEW urges all secretaries to send it reports of the meetings in order that it may carry them in the November issue. And—it wishes Alma Mater and all her scattered sons many happy returns of the day.

With 850 students enrolled during the spring term, 921 during the session of the Summer School, and 1,466 registered on October second, President H. W. Chase formally began the work of the new year, and the University is off to a good start in what from every appearance has reason to be one of the most distinctive years in its history.

The armistice is eleven months in the past. Many of the student body who forsook the class room for the field are back for the completion of their college training, and the University, with an enlarged program projected under a conscious sense of duty to North Carolina and the nation, has consecrated all of its power to make itself an inspiring, clear-visioned leader in the new era.

Unquestionably the new program has been projected upon an enlarged scale. All of its features have not been carried out, owing to the extreme difficulty in securing new men to fill positions in the faculty and the necessity of expanding slowly. But with the opening of the term the School of Commerce, under the direction of Acting-Dean Carroll, begins the definite preparation of Southern students to take the part of trained business men in the economic and industrial life of the South. Similarly, the School of Applied Science, embracing particularly the fields of Chemical, Electrical, Sanitary, Soil, Civil, and Highway Engineering, begins the year with more than one hundred special students and the addition of Phillips Hall, and has set itself the task of providing trained leaders in the increasingly important subjects of engineering. It fully comprehends the necessity of producing the expert engineer if the highways, railways, wharves, terminals, ship yards, water powers, mining projects, and sanitation systems demanded of the new era, are to receive their proper development. Engineers with thorough knowledge and careful training will be in great demand through the State and South, and the University must strive to meet this need, as other needs, in the fullest measure of her capacity.

It is a very happy fact that the program does not fall short of providing for a more effective manpower—which, in part, furnishes the
More Effective foundation for a finer mental and Man Power spiritual power. With the opening of the term Dr. E. A. Abernethy, recently returned from service overseas, assumes charge of the infirmary and control of the health of the student body. Professor T. J. Browne, recently a captain in the service and director of the training school for army physical directors, has been assigned the duty of seeing that every student receives some sort of physical exercise, and a new faculty committee on Sanitation and Hygiene has been commissioned to see to it that the physical plant of the University and all quarters in which students are located are thoroughly hygienic and sanitary. For the first time in the history of the University the individual student and the community collectively are to receive the full emphasis of the necessity of maintaining sound health in a thoroughly wholesome, sanitary environment. Here, too, the program has been enlarged, and we believe, to unusually great profit.

Furthermore, the new program contemplates an enlarged social service to the State, as evidenced by the Social Workers' Conference
Community Ser- held during the summer session vice Contemplated and the State and County Council held during the week August 15-20 and attended by more than 300 State and county officials and welfare workers. In so far as community music and community drama contribute to the growth of a more wholesome community spirit, they too have been provided.

It is by no means THE REVIEW's intention to suggest that the present program has been fully carried out or that the immediate future will not require its material enlargement. Ow-
Things Not ing to the delay in the completion of Yet Done Phillips Hall, provision for the "Office Machinery" previously referred to in these columns has not been provided and the business undertakings of the University, long sadly hampered for lack of room and incomplete organization, is still sorely lacking, and constitutes an imperative need. Furthermore, plans for the renovation of the three oldest dormitories have been held up through failure of the State Architect to complete drawings, and the proposal to erect a new dormitory to take care of the rapidly increasing student body has for the same reason had to be held in abeyance. Similarly, the suggested development of parks and boulevards, is still under consideration with no immediate action in prospect.

THE REVIEW has purposely given the foregoing summary of the year's program, and indicated some of the particulars in which it has not
Your Opinion been fully carried out or completely
Is Wanted developed for one cause or another.

Consideration of this general subject, however, of the part the University is to take in upbuilding North Carolina, leads inevitably to the conclusion that the co-operation of every alumnus is essential to the development and carrying out of any plan that may approximate completeness. And this co-operation, this statement of opinion, is eagerly sought by the University, and the columns of THE REVIEW are herewith opened to all alumni in the earnest hope that comment will be immediately forthcoming.

To be specific, THE REVIEW believes it extremely important that the alumni (together with the University) begin to think about the following
Cases In matters:
Point

1. The advantages that would accrue to the University and to the State through conventions similar to the Good Roads Institute and State and County Council which could be entertained by means of the erection of a first class hotel in the village.

2. The desirability of erecting on University ground a number of small, attractive dwellings for the use of members of the faculty. The congestion this year is almost insufferable, and the lack of houses seriously handicaps the administration in adding to the faculty.

3. Does the University propose to extend its program for the education of women? More than a thousand young women seeking higher education were turned away from North Carolina colleges in September because no provision was made for them. Shall more women be admitted to the University, and if so shall they be admitted to advanced classes only? Isn't a woman's building an absolute essential if the number of admissions is to be further extended?

4. Hasn't North Carolina enough at stake in the fields of industry and business organization to justify the immediate erection of an adequate building for the School of Commerce?

5. Two years less than a century ago (1822) Gerrard Hall was completed and (we presume) adequately met the requirements of the University for chapel purposes. But that was 1822! Count the seats, "survey" the building as you will, the one big fact remains that only six hundred—a half—of the students now enrolled can be crammed into it, and it is the only auditorium we have. Pipe organ, stage, good chairs, proper lighting and ventilation—all are wanting. And that too when no more fitting memorial to the fifty-five sons who fell while fighting for the freedom of the world could be devised than a beautiful, completely appointed chapel.

6. The South has yet to found a School of Social Science or Public Welfare. Today North Carolina is calling into service hundreds of workers in the following groups: public health nurses, whole-time health officers, Red Cross workers, secretaries of chambers of commerce, Y.M.C.A. secretaries, county superintendents of public welfare (100 are required by law), directors of play grounds, etc. All of them need a thorough grounding in the principles of society, yet, as we have indicated, no Southern university has provided the necessary instruction.

7. Shall the University establish a Carolina press? We do not have in mind a revival of the physical plant of former days, but an incorporated organization through which work of distinctive merit such as that of the Columbia University or University of Chicago presses shall reach the public?

8. Finally, shall we all co-operate—through thought, work, and money—in making the University the great, useful institution which it can and should be? Again, we say, your opinion, your answer, is wanted.

From one of our most interested readers we have received the following pointed request: "Please give us more alumni notes. They are the most interesting feature to us who are on the outside." We heartily commend this request to all the alumni. Unquestionably the alumni note section of THE REVIEW is the most interesting to every Old Grad, and we want your assistance, Mr. Alumnus, to fill this section full. To date, you have been a rank slacker (with few exceptions) in this matter, and we call upon you to let us hear from you. We commend, by way of example, the action of Henry Clark Smith, '11, by means of which we have secured for this number of THE REVIEW a full page of information entitled "Carolina in the Mission Field."

October first was moving day for THE REVIEW. R. W. Madry, '18, alumni editor and assistant business manager for the past fifteen months, has entered the School of Journalism at Columbia University and E. R. Rankin takes over his work. Frank P. Graham, '09, comes back to the "Hill" to be Dean of Students and to instruct in History. His name was not taken down from the mast head while he was in service, consequently the only change is that we expect copy from him from this on. Lenoir Chambers, Jr., '14, Director of Publications, joins the staff. In other particulars the editorial board remains unchanged and will function—or not, as the case may be—as formerly.

THE REVIEW "points with pride" to its extensive list of advertisers and directs the attention of all alumni to the wares and services they offer. THE REVIEW is grateful for this particular sort of assistance which it receives in making itself a going concern, and in turn it bespeaks for those who thus favor it the interest and patronage of its readers.

On Alumni Day at the recent commencement resolutions were formally adopted looking to a definite plan of alumni action during the year. Some of these proposals are so worthy of consideration at University Day that they are repeated here with the hope that they may be carried out generally by the alumni.

1. We heartily indorse the establishment of the Graham Memorial Building, believing that it will satisfy a real need in University life. We suggest that the alumni council adopt ways and means of bringing this matter to the attention of the alumni generally, and suggest that they set out the need for the building and the uses it will serve.

2. That steps be taken leading to the establishment of a system for keeping on hand, available at all times, accurate information concerning all of the alumni. This bureau of information, established at the University, should keep in touch with the alumni and be able to furnish the correct address and other pertinent up-to-date information about every alumnus.

3. That county alumni associations be organized in every county which does not at present have an association and wherever practicable outside the State.

4. That steps be taken for increasing the circulation of THE ALUMNI REVIEW, so as to make this circulation more nearly commensurate with the size of the alumni body.

5. That meetings of the local associations be held frequently throughout the year.

6. That an annual convention of class and local alumni secretaries be held.

7. That support of the alumni to the Alumni Loyalty Fund be enlisted as a regular policy.

8. That a complete war record of alumni be compiled.

STATE AND COUNTY COUNCIL HELD

Three Hundred State and County Welfare Officials Hold Fine Inspirational Conference

The State and County Council, a conference of public welfare workers, was held at the University September 15-19, attended by more than three hundred officials from seventy-six counties. Described by Governor Bickett, who presided, as destined to prove of inestimable value to the State, the council became an open forum where the new public welfare laws were explained by State officials and where county officials sought information and swapped experiences.

Problems of public education, public health, taxation, highways, and public welfare, most of which have arisen because of new laws and the new officials charged with carrying them into effect, were threshed out during four days of discussions. After every speaker the meeting was thrown open and questions were passed back and forth and views interchanged.

Governor Bickett, in addition to presiding at most of the discussions, opened the council with an address in which he said that the greatest problem before North Carolina today was the human problem.

"One mistake we have made in North Carolina," said the Governor, "is that we have concentrated all our thought on machinery and on the raw material fed into the machinery and have paid too little attention to the human problem in business. I say to you that the most vital equation in any factory in North Carolina is the human equation.

Governor Bickett also led a discussion on the revaluation act, which he said ought to be called "An act to make the tax books of North Carolina speak the truth," and he reported that returns coming in showed that the truth was being told about the value of property.

Further discussions of taxation and accounting problems were led by Judge George P. Pell, and A. J. Maxwell, of the State Corporation Commission, W. C. Boren, chairman Guilford County Commissioners; W. A. McGirt, chairman New Hanover County Commissioners; George G. Scott, chairman State Board Public Accountancy, and Professor Branson, of the University.

The system of procedure in the new juvenile courts was explained by Judge Charles N. Feidelson, of the Children's Court of Savannah, by R. F. Beasley, Secretary State Board of Public Welfare, by Mrs. Clarence W. Johnson, Director of the Child Welfare Division of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, and by A. S. McFarlane, County Superintendent of Public Welfare in Forsyth County, pioneer in this work in North Carolina. The largest individual group at the Council was the County Superintendents of Public Welfare, and they perfected an organization of their own by electing R. F. Beasley, president, A. S. McFarlane, vice-president, and Mrs. Blanche B. Carr, secretary and treasurer.

Public health work in the State was described by Drs. W. S. Rankin, A. J. Warren, B. E. Washburn, George M. Cooper, and Mrs. Kate Brew Vaughn, all of the State Board of Health, and the public health system of Ohio, stated by Dr. Rankin to be a model of its kind, was explained in detail by Dr. Allen W. Freeman, Commissioner of Health for Ohio.

Frank Page, chairman of the State Highway Commission, aroused great interest when he said that $1,500,000 worth of road building machinery was coming to the State from the Federal Government. Highway discussions were led by W. L. Spoon and E. W. James, of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Public education problems were discussed by E. C. Brooks, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and by George Howard, Jr., superintendent of Edgecombe County Schools.

In response to a widely-voiced demand the council was made a permanent institution and a committee was appointed by Governor Bickett to make plans for next year's meeting. This committee consists of Prof. E. C. Branson, chairman, A. T. Allen, Mrs. Clarence W. Johnson, W. C. Jones, and Dr. F. M. Register. The local committee which handled the council for the University consisted of Dr. E. C. Branson, Dr. L. R. Wilson, Dr. E. W. Knight, and Mr. C. T. Woollen.

SCHOOL OF COMMERCE ESTABLISHED

One Hundred and Twenty-five Students Enroll as Prospective Business Leaders

Announcement was made by President Chase during the summer of the new School of Commerce, which started with an enrollment of 125 on October 2nd. A four-year course leading to a degree of Bachelor of Science in Commerce, the last two years of which will be almost completely technical in character, will be given by experts in business and commercial subjects. The appropriation for this school was made by the last Legislature.

"The purpose and method of the School of Commerce," said President Chase, "are based on the conviction that the business training of former times, acquired through the prolonged and wasteful process of simple experience, is inadequate to meet changed conditions of the present day. The courses of study are designed to give a general grounding in the fundamentals of business and, at the same time, a definite and practical preparation for those who expect to engage in any of the great lines of industrial and commercial activity."

Unconditional entrance to the school is the same as for the College of Liberal Arts, which requires fifteen units. Students twenty-one years of age and over who cannot fulfill the entrance requirements may be admitted as special students, but not as candidates for a degree. The first two years of the school will be broadly similar to Freshman and Sophomore work, but with added emphasis on Modern Languages, Commercial Geography, and History in relation to industry and business.

In the third year courses will be offered in Accounting, Business Organization, Money and Banking, Insurance, Transportation, Corporation Finance, Commercial Law, Labor Problems, Rural Economics, Practical French and Spanish, Advanced English Composition, the writing of technical papers, and Psychology.

Included in the fourth year's work are Theories of Economic Reform, Advanced Accounting, Industrial Management, Public Finance, Foreign Trade, International Law, Markets and Marketing, Salesmanship and Sales Management, Advanced Commercial and Industrial Geography, Latin American History and Customs, Social Psychology, and Ethics.

A part of the training will consist of attendance upon lectures given by representative business men of the State and of the South, and already a promising list of North Carolina business men have agreed to give these lectures. These will be supplemented by government officials who are dealing with industrial problems. Representatives of the Tariff Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Census Bureau, and Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce are among those who will come.

During the summer between the Junior and Senior years, each student will be expected to spend his time working in an establishment in the line of business for which he is preparing. This may begin in the summer following the Sophomore year, as is the case now with the students who go to the National City Bank of New York. The University itself, in its business aspects, will be used as a working laboratory, particularly the offices of the Treasurer and the Business Manager.

Mr. D. D. Carroll, Professor of Economics, has been appointed acting dean of the School of Commerce, and Professor Roy B. Cowin will be Associate Professor of Accounting. Professor Cowin has taught accounting at the University of Michigan and the University of Iowa, and lately has been in the accounting department of the post office department.

NEW CAROLINA PHARMACISTS

Four men from the University School of Pharmacy took the examinations before the State Board last June and became licensed pharmacists. These were: J. M. Buffaloe, Raleigh; G. L. Nye, Orrum; C. R. Wheeler, Whitsett; A. B. Bobbitt, Warrenton. Mr. Buffaloe led the class standing the examinations.

The North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association has established a scholarship in the School of Pharmacy.

WE ARE HAPPY TO BE CORRECTED

In recent issues of THE REVIEW, the names of J. B. Oldham, '13, Jno. B. Bonner, '17, and B. C. Harrell, '17, have appeared as being alumni who had fallen in service. THE REVIEW is glad to make the correction that the carrying of these names in the list of alumni who had died in service was an error, and that these alumni are alive and well. J. B. Oldham is farming near Chapel Hill. Dr. Bonner is practicing his profession, medicine, at Morehead City. B. C. Harrell, who is a veteran from the 1916 football team, has re-entered the University and is again on the Carolina varsity.

HARD PRACTICE AT FOOTBALL

Fifty Candidates are at Hard Practice Under Campbell, Ramsey and Homewood

The Carolina football season, the first varsity season since 1916, was started September 10th when fifty candidates assembled on the "Hill" to meet Head Coach Campbell and to begin the preliminary work-outs. Without delay Campbell threw his men into morning and afternoon practice daily and the squad was ready to begin scrimmaging exactly two weeks later. Two heavy games at the start of the season, Rutgers on October 4th and Yale on October 11th, made stiff work necessary from the start.

Three resident coaches have charge of the squad. Head Coach Thomas Campbell, who coached the 1916 team to a victory over Virginia, learned his football under Haughton at Harvard. He was assistant coach at Harvard in 1913 and 1914, was head coach at Bowdoin in 1915, and was in charge of all athletics at the University in 1916 and 1917 until he entered the army. His record with the 1916 team was so satisfactory and his own bearing as a gentleman and a sportsman made such a strong impression on the University that his return has been regarded as the start of a successful season.

Assisting Campbell are Roy Homewood, '16, an end of four years' experience and assistant coach in 1916, and Graham Ramsey, '17, who played tackle, 1913 to 1916. Homewood will have charge of the ends and Ramsey of the line men, and Campbell will have general supervision and will give particular attention to the backs.

The squad that met these coaches contained six varsity veterans from 1916—Grimes and Harrell, guards, and Barden, a sub-guard, Proctor, end, Johnson, quarter, and Coleman, half-back. The one year residence rule limited the candidates to the Freshman teams of 1916 and 1917 and the S.A.T.C. team of last year. Fortunately, some strong material was developed on those teams. Blount, Brown, Shaw, Jacoby, and Dorte have been tried out at center, with Blount and Brown showing up best in the early work.

Robbins, a 210-pounder from the 1917 Freshman team, has shown up well at tackle, and Allen Gantt, last year's captain, is another tackle of experience. Barden has been used at both guard and tackle, and Harrell, one of the veterans, has been shifted out to tackle. Whiting, Pritchard, Nichols, and Abernathy are other promising line men.

Homewood will have to develop his ends from Proctor and Bell, both of whom had experience in 1916, from Cochrane and Sims of the 1917 Freshmen, from Crayton, who has had some experience at Washington and Lee; from Woodall, of the basketball squad, and Ayeock. The fight for the quarterback position should be a pretty one with Johnson from 1916 and Pharr, a brilliant player from the S.A.T.C. team, the most favored. Smith, Mobley, and Susman are other candidates.

Coleman, with his great punting and his experience in 1916, is a leading backfield candidate. Fearrington and Lowe both showed up well last year, and Spaugh, an 180-pound full back, was a star in his Freshman year, but has never had a chance at a varsity team. Griffith, Harden, Tenney, Fulton, Wearn, and Abernathy have all displayed promise in the early practices.

The material as a whole is light, but there is lots of speed, and rarely has more enthusiasm and earnestness been shown by any Carolina squad.

TWENTY-NINE NEW DOCTORS

Twenty-nine young physicians who received the first two years of their medical training in the School of Medicine of the University received license to practice medicine in North Carolina at the State examinations held in June of this year.

The five leading candidates in these examinations were U. N. C. men, their order being Doctors DeWitt Kluttz, N. C. Riddle, W. M. Coppridge, F. B. Marsh, H. W. Lyon.

The list of Carolina men follows: Doctors N. B. Broughton, Raleigh; G. M. Brooks, Salisbury; J. V. Price, Madison; G. C. Cooke, Winston-Salem; A. H. Elliott, Thornwall; DeWitt Kluttz, Chester, S. C.; N. C. Riddle, Sanford; W. A. Marlowe, Lucama; C. O. Delaney, Weddington; F. B. Seruggs, Rutherfordton; J. W. Harbison, Morganton; C. B. Squires, Charlotte; W. G. Taylor, Greensboro; D. T. Tayloe, Washington; H. M. Brinkley, Elm City; F. C. Hubbard, Wilkesboro; B. B. McGuire, Norton; W. H. Dixon, Rocky Mount; W. M. Coppridge, Roanoke, Va.; H. W. Lyon, Windsor; F. B. Marsh, Salisbury; W. R. Sanford, Teer; G. F. West, Bynum; L. N. Conoly, Shannon; H. McG. Sweeney, Leaksville; R. G. Wilson, Swannanoa; K. H. Bailey, Wakefield; E. S. Suggs, Chapel Hill; Frank Sabiston, Jacksonville.

NORTH CAROLINA'S SURPASSING HUMAN WEALTH

Below is given the address of welcome made by President Chase on Monday night, September 15, to the State and county officials and allied workers attending the State and County Council. It contains such a clear statement of the purpose of the University to serve that it is reproduced herewith in full.

It is my happy privilege to welcome to the University of North Carolina this group of men and women consecrated to the service of North Carolina. I speak not for myself alone, but for all of us whose daily lives center about this campus, when I say that we are glad and proud that you are here.

From our hearts we want to say to you that all the resources of this campus are yours. They are yours not merely for the days that you are here, but whenever and wherever you can use them. For the University of North Carolina exists to serve the people of North Carolina. It is not the possession of its Faculty, or its Students, but of the people of the State. Those of us to whom its destinies are for the time entrusted are recreant to our trust if we do not recognize this fundamental truth. And so I bid you welcome tonight, not to anything which is ours, but to that which is already yours—yours as citizens of North Carolina, active in her service and in her upbuilding. In coming here you are but coming to your own.

You have come together here at a time when North Carolina's long dark night of poverty seems forever past. Nowhere has wealth increased so swiftly; nowhere is prosperity more widespread. May I quote just a few facts which have been made here by Dr. Branson and his students. In 1910, the State's farm, fruit and truck crops amounted to 143 million dollars. Last year their value was 537 million dollars—our crops alone quadrupled in value in eight years. The cotton crop alone was worth 50 million dollars more in 1918 than in 1910. Bank Savings deposits and time certificates grew from 22 million dollars in 1915 to 61 million dollars in December, 1918. In addition to this, subscriptions to Liberty Bonds and purchases of War Savings Stamps amounted to 163 million dollars—an amount which will bring into the state annually nearly 8 million dollars in interest. The official government figures show that North Carolina paid the federal government, in internal revenue taxes, 101 million dollars during the last fiscal year. This was more than twice as much as the amount paid by any other Southern State. In federal income and profit taxes alone we paid over 30 million dollars—far more than any other Southern State. This follows naturally from the fact that as early as 1914, North Carolina was the leading industrial State of the South, and its lead has been increasing ever since. It leads all the South in the manufacture of cotton, furniture, and tobacco—in fact in the manufacture of tobacco North Carolina leads the entire country.

Figures, I know, are sometimes dry, but surely not such figures as these. What an amazing story they tell! The story of a people emerging from poverty into affluence, of a State that must henceforth class herself, not as a poor relation, but as a well-to-do and influential member of the family circle.

I have spoken of North Carolina's material wealth. I need not mention to this audience that which is far more important—her surpassing human wealth. With a population whose proportion of native-born whites is higher than that of any other State in the country; whose temper in adversity the marvelous material progress of the State well indicates; whose sturdy and devoted patriotism needs no better illustration than the record of her soldiers in the great war—with such a people and such national resources, I say in all confidence that her destiny is higher even than we yet dream. Surely we cannot think of her future in anything but the biggest terms.

But as we do this, and just in proportion as our faith in her future is real and vital and strong, we must think of the duties and responsibilities of her citizens, and especially of her public servants like yourselves, in just as high terms. Prosperity brings opportunity, but it also brings obligation. It brings the obligation of making certain that North Carolina shall grow in spirit as well as in goods; that it shall never forget that duties, as well as privileges must fall equally upon all; that within the reach of every one of her citizens, there must be a full and free and happy life, in body, mind and soul.

To such high purposes as these you, as servants of this State and of its counties, have devoted yourselves. Your duties are various, but they are linked by the golden thread of service to the people of North Carolina. You are planning for the future of a State that is a thrill with a vision of new opportunities and larger horizons—a State that has at last come into her own. It is a time whose temper calls for big things, that is impatient of anything short of the best. It is, I take it, precisely to match your minds together that you may find from each other's counsel what is the best, that you have come together.

To you, on this your high mission, no formal word of welcome can convey the hospitality of our hearts. We can only pledge ourselves that, so far as in us lies, we will see to it that the young men whom we send from this campus out into the life of the State shall be men who have caught something of the vision of that greater and better citizenship which is yours.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Freshman football will be under the direction of Lester E. Bond, an all-round athlete from the University of Maine and former football coach at Maryville College, Tennessee. Indications are that many experienced high school and preparatory school athletes will be included in the Freshman class and extensive efforts are being made by the athletic authorities to train this material for future varsities.

The big game on the Freshman schedule will be with the University of Virginia Freshmen at Charlottesville, November 22, the Saturday before Thanksgiving. Another game has been arranged with Bingham School, and negotiations are under way for additional games with the University of Georgia Freshmen, the South Carolina Freshmen, Davidson Scrubs, and Oak Ridge.

DEANS AND NEW APPOINTMENTS

Following a meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees in Raleigh, September 23rd, President Chase announced a division in the duties assigned to the dean, involving the appointment of Dr. George Howe as Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, the retention of Dr. A. H. Patterson as Dean of the School of Applied Science, and the creation of a new position to be known as Dean of Students, to which position was appointed Frank P. Graham, Assistant Professor of History.

"The University has now developed to a point at which the duties of the deanship as they have been in the past cannot longer be performed satisfactorily by any one man," said President Chase, in speaking of the changes. "The Dean of the College has been both a student and an educational official, and has had on his hands all matters of discipline, as well as all questions of educational policy concerning the academic department. It has seemed best to redistribute the functions formerly attached to the Deanship of the College."

Dean Graham, as new Dean of Students, will have in his charge all matters of student discipline so far as they concern the faculty. To this work he brings the equipment of intimate association with the University and with the student body since 1905 and a record of marked success in dealing with men on the Carolina campus or anywhere else. A member of the class of 1909 and twice its president, he studied law at the University, taught in the Raleigh High School, served as Y. M. C. A. secretary at the University, had two years of graduate work at Columbia and was instructor in History at the University until he enlisted in the Marine Corps, where he rose from private to first lieutenant.

Dr. Howe, as Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, will have charge of matters of advice to students about courses, the formulation of courses of study for the college—in short, questions of educational policy and practice which concern the College of Liberal Arts. Dr. Howe has been head of the Latin department since 1903, and has been a member of the advisory and executive committees of the faculty, and chairman of the curriculum committee.

Professor Patterson, who is retained as Dean of the School of Applied Science, will have jurisdiction over matters concerning educational policies in that school.

Additions to the faculty announced by President Chase were:

To be Professor of Physical Educational and Director of Physical Training—Thomas J. Browne. Graduate Springfield Y.M.C.A. Training School, B.S. Columbia University, M.A. New York University. Twelve years in charge of physical training at boys' high school. In charge physical training and athletics at Camp Gordon. Head of Central Army School for training physical training officers.

To be Professor of Stratigraphic Geology—William F. Prouty, B.S. Syracuse University, M.A. Syracuse University, Ph.D. Johns Hopkins. Instructor in Geology at Syracuse. Associate Professor and Professor of Geology, University of Alabama.

To be Associate Professor of Psychology—J. F. Dashiell, M.A. and Ph.D. Columbia University. Instructor and Assistant Professor of Psychology at Columbia, Princeton, Minnesota, and Oberlin.

To be Assistant Professor of Drawing—Norman M. Paull, B.S. Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

To be Associate Professor of Accounting—Roy B. Cowin, A.M. University of Michigan. Instructor and Assistant Professor of Accounting at Michigan and Iowa. Accountant, Wire Administration, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C.

To be Assistant Professor of Law—O. O. Eford, A.B. Roanoke College, A.M. Princeton, LL.B. Harvard.

To be temporary Instructor in Histology—Dr. Julian A. Moore.

To be Adviser to Women—Mrs. Marvin H. Staey.

To take the place of Professor W. W. Rankin (on leave)—Arthur S. Winsor.

Additions to the faculty announced after the commencement meeting of the Board of Trustees were:

Professor of Rural Education—Edgar W. Knight, A.B. and A.M. Trinity, Ph.D. Columbia University. Instructor in History, East Carolina Training School. Professor of Education, Trinity College. Superintendent of Schools, Wake County.

Professor of Community Music—Paul John Weaver, A.B. University of Wisconsin, Supervisor of Music in the St. Louis public schools.

Assistant Librarian—Charles M. Baker, A. B. and A. M. Harvard. Instructor in English, Syracuse University. Graduate New York State Library School. Camp Librarian at Camps Jackson, Greene, and Meade.

Assistant Professor of English in charge of Journalism—Clarence A. Hibbard, A.B. and A.M. University of Wisconsin. Professor of English and Dean of Foreign Students, Imperial University of Commerce, Tokio, Japan. Associated Press correspondent in tour around the world. Special correspondent in Japan for Chicago Daily News. Contributor to The Outlook, The Bellman, etc. Assistant Professor of English and Journalism, Miami University.

Returning from government service are Dr. James B. Bullitt, Professor of Histology and Pathology; Dr. Oliver Towles, Associate Professor of Romance Languages; Dr. Henry M. Dargan, Assistant Professor of English; S. H. Hobbs, Jr., Assistant Professor of Rural Economics; H. R. Totten, Instructor in Botany, and Dr. C. W. Keyes, Instructor in Latin.

Leaves of absence have been granted to Prof. Geo. M. McKie, Dr. S. E. Leavitt, who goes to South America for a year to study Spanish and commercial customs; to John W. Lasley, Jr., who goes to the University of Chicago, and to W. W. Rankin, Jr., who goes to Columbia University.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC ESTABLISHED

Prof. Paul John Weaver, for the past four years supervisor of music in the public schools of St. Louis, will be the new head of the department of music. Courses will be offered in Theory, Harmony, History, and the Appreciation of Music, all to be accredited toward the bachelor degree. It is expected that a conservatory and special courses in music will develop soon.

Mr. Weaver is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and has done graduate work there. In addition to his work in schools of St. Louis he has had much experience in song-leading under the auspices of the St. Louis Art League and the War Camp Community Service. He was organist at the Ethical Society and at the West End Presbyterian Church, two of the best posts in the city, and has given numerous recitals in St. Louis. He is a member of the American Guild of Organists.

THIRTY-THREE NEW CAROLINA LAWYERS

Thirty-three Carolina alumni received license to practice law in North Carolina in the examinations conducted by the State Supreme Court in August. Of these twenty-eight went from the University Law School. Miss Willie May Stratford, of Charlotte, won the prize offered by Chief Justice Walter Clark for the highest grade made in the examinations. The list follows:

William Bryant Austin, Ashe; Lee James Best, Harnett; Norman Addison Boren, Guilford; Norwood Bruce Boney, Duplin; Victor Silas Bryant, Jr., Durham; William Washington Candler, Buncombe;

Frederick Jacob Cohen, Wayne; Ecery Byrd Denny, Rowan; Mrs. Opal I. T. Emry, Halifax; Samuel James Ervin, Jr., Burke; Harley Black Gaston, Gaston; Hugh Oliver Hanna, Guilford; Hinton Gardner Hudson, Johnston; Carl Britt Hyatt, Yancey; Henry Daniel Litaker, Lincoln; Elmore Mann, Hyde; Duncan Evander Melver, Lee; Harris Phillips Newman, New Hanover; Albert Oettinger, Wilson; Miss Madeline Elizabeth Palmer, Meeklenburg; Elbert Sidney Peele, Martin; James William Pless, Jr., McDowell; William Dorsey Pruden, Chowan; Beverly Sampson Royster, Jr., Granville; Miss Willie May Stratford, Meeklenburg; Don Addison Walzer, Lexington; Raymond Craft Maxwell, Wake; Owen Meredith Marshburn, Wake; John Will Aiken, Catawba; Carl Leroy Bailey, Washington; Joseph Ira Lee, Johnston; George Murray Sudderth, Watauga; Edward Emmett Sams, Wake.

The School of Law has introduced an important change in that the curriculum has been extended to three years for the L. L. B. degree. Mr. O. O. Eford comes to the faculty as assistant professor, and it is planned to add one or more members to the faculty within a few years. The extension of the course to three years has been in contemplation for sometime and its consummation has been prevented only by war conditions. The faculty now consists of Dean McGhee, Professors McIntosh and Winston, and Assistant Professor Eford.

LONDON IS NEW LIBRARIAN

Henry M. London, of the class of 1899, has entered upon his duties as Legislative Reference Librarian, succeeding the late W. S. Wilson, who was also of the class of '99. Mr. London resigned the chief clerkship in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue for the Eastern North Carolina District in order to take up the duties of Legislative Reference Librarian.

DR. HERTY IN EUROPE

Dr. Chas. H. Herty, formerly head of the department of chemistry in the University, now editor of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, New York City, is in Europe for a few weeks, where he is engaged in purchasing for the dye consumers of this country a six months' supply of such dyes as are now needed but are not yet manufactured here. Dr. Herty, who is a former president of the American Chemical Society, has taken a special interest in the development of the self-contained American dye industry. It is expected that the manufacture of all kinds of dyes will be in full swing in America within six months.

ALUMNI URGED TO CELEBRATE UNIVERSITY DAY

THE REVIEW reproduces herewith the letter which the Alumni Committee of the University has sent to alumni everywhere urging big celebrations of the 126th anniversary of the founding of the University. This letter to the alumni follows:

DEAR FELLOW ALUMNI:

On the eve of her 126th anniversary the University sends heartiest greetings and good wishes to her alumni scattered throughout the State and nation. No other University Day has found Alma Mater more firm in the hearts and affections of her sons, nor surer of the path of service to the State which lies immediately before her. The oldest of the State Universities in point of the opening of her doors, she is the youngest in her spirit of service and in her buoyant confidence that the big problems confronting her will be worked out in splendid fashion.

In order that she may carry on her work with steadily growing strength and vigor at a time when constantly increasing demands are being made on her by the State, she needs and must have the calm counsel and the unusually active support of her sons.

What we suggest now is that you arrange a meeting of the local alumni for Saturday night, October 11th, or Monday night, October 13th, to talk over the affairs of the University, its present problems and opportunities, its relation to your local community and to the State. The General Alumni Association at its meeting last commencement adopted a constructive program of activities for this year. Based on this program we are enclosing for your consideration and action a few suggestions of ways and means by which your local association may co-operate in the work of the University and the General Alumni Association.

We ask especially that meetings be held in every county of the State, that not a single county be unrepresented in the gatherings which this year commemorate the laying of the cornerstone of the Old East Building in 1793. If the alumni of your county are at present unorganized, plan now to effect a live organization this time.

The whole-hearted support of the people of the State, the enthusiastic co-operation of alumni, faculty, and students, and the realization that the present decade, following the war, will be the richest and most fruitful educationally in the nation's history, assure our Alma Mater of a genuinely great future. But we need your continued and active interest and participation. We know we have it!

The day will be celebrated at the University on Saturday morning, October 11th. Hon. Francis D. Winston, of the class of 1879, will make an address at this time. You are cordially invited to be present.

Do not postpone the meeting but let every association and every group of alumni, wherever two or three may be banded together, hold a meeting. Start the year off with a rousing celebration!

To all of her sons wherever they may be the University sends her affectionate regard and heartiest God-speed!

W. S. BERNARD, '00,
T. J. WILSON, JR., '94,
E. R. RANKIN, '13,
Committee.

SUGGESTIONS TO LOCAL ASSOCIATIONS

The suggestions made by the Alumni Committee to the local alumni associations are as follows:

1. That a University Welfare Committee be appointed from each association, whose duty it shall be to devise and develop plans for extending the University's interests locally, and upon whom the President of the University, or the Alumni Secretary, may feel free to call at any time.

2. That plans be made for the establishment by your association of an extension center, which will bring a series of lectures by members of the faculty to your community this year.

3. That the support of your association be continued and extended to the Graham Memorial Fund, the Alumni Loyalty Fund, and THE ALUMNI REVIEW.

4. That the secretary of your local association be empowered to compile a complete record of the members of your association who were in service in the world war. This record will prove of great value both now and in the future.

5. That the association encourage the participation of the high schools of your county in the interscholastic debating and athletic contests conducted each year by the University.

6. That meetings of your association be held more frequently, that Carolina men may magnify the bond which unites them and come to know each other better.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

The schedule announced by Graduate Manager Woollen calls for eight games, five of them within the State, three of them at Chapel Hill. Greatest interest centers around the Virginia game, to be played this year at Chapel Hill on Thanksgiving Day, and the A. and E. game to be played in Raleigh October 23rd, Thursday of Fair week. The Carolina-Virginia game has been played in Richmond every year since the contest was started with the exception of 1907 when it was played in Norfolk. Playing it in Chapel Hill one year and Charlottesville the next marks an effort on the part of both universities to bring good football before the students of the universities. The A. and E. game is the first football contest between the two state institutions in years, and every indication points to a brilliant game in Raleigh.

The complete schedule:

Oct. 4—Rutgers, at New Brunswick, N. J.

Oct. 11—Yale, at New Haven.

Oct. 18—Wake Forest, at Chapel Hill.

Oct. 23—A. & E., at Raleigh.

Nov. 1—Tennessee, at Knoxville.

Nov. 8—V. M. I., at Chapel Hill.

Nov. 15—Davidson, at Winston-Salem.

Nov. 27—Virginia, at Chapel Hill.

"The Carolina Playmakers" is the title of an illustrated article in the September issue of the Review of Reviews, which appreciatively portrays the work of the University in the field of community drama.

ATLANTA ALUMNI NOTES

THE REVIEW is glad to carry the following Atlanta alumni notes which were forwarded by a member of the Atlanta Alumni Association:

Shepard Bryan is the senior member of the firm of Bryan & Middlebrooks, engaged in the practice of law with offices in the Candler Building. He was recently prominently mentioned and recommended for appointment as U. S. District Judge for the Northern District of Georgia.

Dr. Michael Hoke is one of the most successful specialists in surgery in the whole southeast. His practice consists largely of orthopedic surgery, in which profession he enjoys a reputation throughout the county.

V. A. Batchelor is engaged in the practice of law, with offices in the Third National Bank Building. He is prominent in business and social affairs of the city.

Dr. E. G. Ballenger has built up a large and profitable business as physician in partnership with Dr. O. F. Elder, with offices in the Healey Building. He has been appointed chairman of the Sponsors and Maids Committee for the United Confederate Veteran's Reunion. He was commissioned major in the Emory Hospital Unit and spent almost a year in the service in France.

Daniel G. Fowle was commissioned captain at the first officers' training school at Fort McPherson and went overseas with the Eighty-Second Division in April, 1918. While at the front he was severely gassed and was only lately discharged from the hospital. He is now with the regular army and is temporarily stationed at Hattiesburg, Mississippi.

Thomas S. Kenan is president of the Atlanta Cotton Oil Company and of the Atlanta Fiber Company. He has been successful in business since taking up his residence in Atlanta.

T. B. Higdon is engaged in the practice of law, with offices in the Hurt Building. He is a member of the American Bar Association, the Georgia Bar Association and the Atlanta Bar Association. He entered the Field Artillery Central Officers Training School at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., where he was discharged after the signing of the armistice.

L. B. Lockhart is a successful commercial chemist with laboratories at 33 1-2 Auburn Avenue. He is a member of the American Chemical Society and is prominent among the chemists of the city. On September 30th, 1916, he married Miss Louise Hamilton and they have a fine boy.

C. E. Betts is connected with the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, and is making a success at his business.

John Y. Smith is engaged in the practice of law with offices in the Fourth National Bank Building. He is a member of the Legislature from Fulton County and enjoys a lucrative practice.

Jerome Moore, since his discharge from the Army, is practicing law with his brother-in-law under the firm name of Evans & Moore, with offices in the Empire Building. He was a captain in the Eighty-third Regiment of the Seventh Division of the regular army and spent about eight months in France.

J. W. Speas is sales manager of the National City Company, in the Trust Company of Georgia Building. He has been successful since entering business in the city and is one of the best known and best informed financial experts in the city.

Albert Fore has recently moved to Atlanta and is with the Southern Bell Telephone Company.

The unmarried contingent of U. N. C. alumni in Atlanta, including Dr. E. G. Ballenger, Jerome Moore, V. A. Batchelor,

John Y. Smith, T. B. Higdon, J. W. Speas and Albert Fore, are among the active participants in the social life of the city. Mr. Speas has recently invested in a new car and is liberal in the use of it with his friends, both male and female.

UNIVERSITY HAS FINE OPENING

At 12 o'clock (noon) on October 2nd, the formal opening of the University was held in Memorial Hall, the entire student body and faculty being present and the invocation being made by Dr. W. D. Moss.

President Chase began the exercises by giving the statistics of registration for the two days and a half, as follows: Freshmen 389; upperclassmen and professional students 687; Summer School students working for degrees 352; Summer Law students 38; total, duplicates included, 1,466, a net gain of more than 200 above any previous total registration for an entire year.

Announcements were made by President Chase relating to changes in the faculty and the new program of work which the University is undertaking for the year, particularly in the fields of commerce, music, and physical welfare. The plan of organization of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps was explained by Major Frederick Boye, in charge of the local unit.

In speaking to the students, President Chase welcomed them to all that was fine and high in the life of Carolina and expressed as his highest wish for them that they might prove to be worthy associates of all the hosts of Carolina men who had preceded them. He urged that they be good citizens on the campus and develop into complete physical, mental, and spiritual manhood.

Following President Chase, Dean of Students Frank P. Graham spoke feelingly of the world's need of men to replace the loss of youth and manhood incident to the war. The world, he declared, looked to the young manhood of America, particularly the college students, of today, to bring the world back to prosperity and variety. In addressing himself to the part Carolina men are to play in this world-rehabilitation he emphatically declared that only the students who won clarity of mind, wholesomeness of spirit, and character here upon the campus, could be counted on to answer completely the tragic heart-cry of the world.

The exercises were concluded by the benediction pronounced by Dr. Moss.

Yale University has recently received the following bequests and gifts: $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 from the Sterling estate; $1,854,000 from other sources; and $673,316.94 from the Alumni Loyalty Fund.

ON THE MISSIONARY FIRING LINE

EDITOR, ALUMNI REVIEW:

SIR: If you haven't the "Spirit of Missions" in the library, secure one for September from the editor of the Episcopal Church and you will note an article about Fred Drane, '12, in Alaska, one by Hoke Ramsaur, '10, in Liberia, and one by me, '11, in Arizona.

This is in response to your appeal for news of the alumni which you voiced at the last commencement.

Cordially and faithfully yours,

HENRY CLARK SMITH.

Was established to provide a way by which every alumnus could contribute according to his ability to the general welfare of the University.

A GOOD NUMBER FROM MANY CLASSES

Have taken advantage of this opportunity and have contributed a total of $10,000.

ARE YOU IN THIS NUMBER?

Or are you letting your class-mates or members of other classes lay the foundation of what is to be one of Carolina's great achievements---the building up of a great fund, the income from which can later be applied in ways that will multiply Alma Mater's usefulness a hundredfold.

UNIVERSITY DAY IS A GOOD DAY

On which to make a beginning, or to renew your contribution. All contributions are payable to University Treasurer, at Chapel Hill.

THE UNIVERSITY IN LETTERS

In a recent issue of The New Republic (September 3) is an interesting and suggestive contribution by Professor J. M. Booker, of the English department. "Barbusse in Peace and War" is more than a summary of the work of Barbusse—something more than a review of "We Others"—although it is both. It is a subtle study in contrast between the French attitude of mind and the American—shall I say?—habit of will. Dr. Booker points out that the "American reader"—presumably there is such a creature—is resolutely optimistic, and declines to look continually on the darker side of things—largely, one imagines, because his world is mostly in sunlight—and he would have to be very moody to go on a still hunt for the penumbra. Dr. Booker suggests that the American reader, who will swallow Barbusse in war time, will "pass up" his pessimism in the piping times of peace. Barbusse is an artist: he is concerned with getting his effects, not with telling stories typical of conditions in the United States, or even in France! Dr. Booker's interpretation is helpful. For we Americans need, as does no people with the enlightenment we enjoy, to appreciate art, whether cheerful or gloomy, and to recognize its value, beauty, and rarity—whether or not it gives us a thrill of "uplift" or spells joy, ease, and self-contentment.

Another contribution from the pen of Dr. Booker is "Bugaboo" in the current Sewanee Review (July). We may, if we will, see in it a contest, single-handed, by the doughty American champion of the "Fourteen Points," with the entire German Cabinet. Surely that august body needs a very thick and soft cushion to protect them from the fourteen points dexterously wielded by the Wilsonian champion. The article may be regarded as the definite assumption of the challenge thrown down by the German Cabinet (May 20th) in these words: "We do not believe that anyone in the United State will have the courage to claim that there can be found in the peace conditions one single trace left of President Wilson's programme." In a very business-like fashion Dr. Booker "places the Fourteen Points opposite the peace terms," and quite honestly draws the inevitable conclusions. His final conclusion is: "Only a single one of the Fourteen Points has not left a trace." And he is certain that the Cabinet's declaration is a case of German Bugaboo—"a case of attempting to scare our national conscience with the accusation of a crime that had never been committed."

A recent article by S. R. Winters, '13, is found in the National Magazine: "National Forests as Recreation Grounds." Such an article, with arresting illustrations, is a genuine stimulus to American travel. It is highly appropriate just now—a sort of "See America First" slogan in itself. For North Carolina it now has an especial meaning, in view of our recently incorporated Appalachian forest reserve. Mr. Winters points out the startling fact that the National Forests embrace a total area of 156,000,000 acres—an area commensurate with the combined states of Louisiana, Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi. These wonderful recreation grounds should be more widely known and appreciated than they are at present.

Under the title "Witchcraft in North Carolina," Dr. Tom Pete Cross, now of the University of Chicago and formerly professor of English in this University, presents a critical and exhaustive study of North Carolina folklore. While connected with the University, Dr. Cross was a member of the North Carolina Folk-Lore Association, and the present publication, which is issued in the July number of Studies in Philology, completes the investigations begun at that time.

A publication which came from press in the summer and which will prove of interest and value to many North Carolinians is a Directory of the State and County Officials of North Carolina, by H. M. London, '99, recently appointed legislative reference librarian of the North Carolina Historical Commission. The booklet, as the title indicates, contains the names and addresses of North Carolina State and county officials and will be widely used throughout the State.

Since the last issue of THE REVIEW three publications in the Extension Leaflet series have been issued as follows: Sanitation in the South, by Thorndike Saville, Associate Professor of Sanitary Engineering in the University; (2) The Flag and America's Creed—A Manual for Teachers, by L. A. Williams, Professor of School Administration; and (3) Studies in Citizenship, by D. D. Carroll, Professor of Economics. The last named Leaflet has been prepared for the special use of Women's Clubs in North Carolina and will be employed as a guide to study in a detailed course in national, State, and local government.

PHYSICAL TRAINING PROVIDED FOR ALL STUDENTS

Seeking to overcome and prevent the large proportion of physical defects revealed by draft statistics and to raise the health standards of the entire student body, the University will this year start a new program of student health and physical training. Captain Thomas J. Browne, professor of physical education and director of physical training, will be the chief agent in this campaign and some of the methods he will employ are a complete survey of the physical condition of entering students, corrective measures under expert advice, wholesome exercise through the medium of intra-mural games, and a strict adherence to public health rules.

Captain Browne is well equipped for this work. For twelve years he was in charge of physical training at a high school in New York City, working with 3,500 boys. Entering the army, he was placed in charge of physical training and athletics at Camp Gordon, where his success was so marked that he was made head of the Central Army School for the training of physical training officers. He there taught and directed the officers who themselves were responsible for the physical condition of the men.

Freshmen on entrance to the University have for some years been required to undergo a physical examination, but present plans call for a stricter examination and compulsory exercise for the Freshmen to correct physical errors. This exercise will be under careful supervision, and examinations and reports will be made from time to time to check up the work.

For all the men in the University not playing on varsity teams, a system of intra-mural games will be started, with this again under careful supervision. Soccer football, basketball, and tennis are among the games Captain Browne will rely on, and efforts will be made to reach the largest possible number of students.

RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS ORGANIZED

Under the direction of Frederiek Boye, Major, Cavalry, U. S. A., a Reserve Officers' Training unit has been established with a probable enrollment of between 250 and 300 men who will be organized into a battalion of four companies. It is proposed that Major Boye will be assisted by a non-commissioned officer and eight upper classmen who held commissions in the Army during the war.

The work of the unit is to be divided into three divisions—practical, lectures and demonstrations, and conferences or classroom recitations. The practical work will be left largely for the summer camp and the theory of military subjects will be studied during the college year.

All members of the unit receive equipment, including clothing, shoes, etc., and after two years service are given commutation of subsistence at the rate of $12 per month. Time allotted to training in the four-year course is three hours per week for Freshmen and Sophomores and five hours per week for Juniors and Seniors. Proper credit is given by the University for degrees. Students attending summer camp receive mileage and subsistence.

Major Boye is admirably equipped to direct this work and he expects the battalion to give a fine account of itself during the year.

SUMMER SCHOOL HAD LARGE ENROLLMENT

The thirty-second session of the University Summer School, June 24-August 7, enrolled 921 students from 89 North Carolina counties, thirteen states, and two foreign countries. Of the total, 352 students were pursuing courses leading to degrees. Among the special features of the School were the presentation of the "Taming of the Shrew," under the direction of Prof. F. H. Koch; the holding of a Social Workers' Conference, directed by Prof. E. C. Branson, and the Musical Festival participated in by the student chorus and soloists and directed by Professor Gustav Hagedorn.

Princeton alumni are maturing plans for the raising of an additional endowment fund of $14,000,000.

The "Constitution" of To-day—Electrically Propelled

THE U. S. S. "New Mexico," the first battleship of any nation to be electrically propelled, is one of the most important achievements of the scientific age. She not only develops the maximum power and, with electrical control, has greater flexibility of maneuver, which is a distinct naval advantage, but also gives greater economy. At 10 knots, her normal cruising speed, she will steam on less fuel than the best turbine-driven ship that preceded her.

The electric generating plant, totaling 28,000 horsepower, and the propulsion equipment of the great super-dreadnaught were built by the General Electric Company. Their operation has demonstrated the superiority of electric propulsion over old-time methods and a wider application of this principle in the merchant marine is fast making progress.

Six auxiliary General Electric Turbine-Generators of 400 horsepower each, supply power for nearly 500 motors, driving pumps, fans, shop machinery, and kitchen and laundry appliances, etc.

Utilizing electricity to propel ships at sea marks the advancement of another phase of the electrical industry in which the General Electric Company is the pioneer. Of equal importance has been its part in perfecting electric transportation on land, transforming the potential energy of waterfalls for use in electric motors, developing the possibilities of electric lighting and many other similar achievements.

As a result, so general are the applications of electricity to the needs of mankind that scarcely a home or individual today need be without the benefits of General Electric products and service.

Figures that tell the Story of Achievement

Length—624 feet
 Width—97 feet
 Displacement—32,000 tons
 Fuel capacity—a million gallons (fuel oil)
 Power—28,000 electrical horsepower
 Speed—21 knots

An illustrated booklet describing the "New Mexico," entitled, "The Electric Ship," will be sent upon request. Address General Electric Company, Desk 44, Schenectady, New York.

Daniel Webster's Decision

THERE come only a few great crises in men's lives. A few great decisions, and the course of a life — for better or worse, for large things or for small — is determined forever.

Such a crisis came early to Webster.

He had struggled up out of the hard conditions of the farm and was reading law in the office of Christopher Gore in Boston.

One day there came a letter that seemed like a great ray of sunlight. His father wrote him that the clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, back in the home state had died. The Chief Justice had decided to offer the place to Webster.

It carried a salary of $1500 a year.

In great elation he went to Mr. Gore with the letter. And Christopher Gore, wise and successful man of the world, dashed his enthusiasm with a single question:

"You don't mean to accept it surely?" he asked.

*The wise few who sacrifice
the present for the future.*

IN straightforward, kindly fashion he pointed out the truth to young Webster — that the few wise men who make large successes in the world must learn to sacrifice the present for the future.

The fifteen hundred dollars looked large to the young man, but the place that went with it led nowhere.

And Daniel Webster had the wisdom to pass it by, and to make the struggle for larger training that leads to a really worthwhile success.

Comparatively few men in any generation have that wisdom; it is the business of the Alexander Hamilton Institute to discover those men and to put at their command the training that opens the way to commanding positions in business.

95,000 men enrolled

WITHIN the past ten years more than 95,000 men have enrolled with the Alexander Hamilton Institute; a very large proportion of them are college graduates.

They were men who realized that training is the key to large things, and who were willing to invest a little in money and time for the sake of their future.

They have been attracted to the Institute by the fact that it has only one Course; for ten years it has specialized in just one thing — training men for executive responsibility and success. To the man who knows one branch of business it gives the underlying principles of all business; to the man who has special training in one department it provides a grasp of the other departments.

These 95,000 men are the living advertisement of the Institute; the evidence that its Course is worth the investigation of any man who covets large rather than mediocre success.

Send for "Forging Ahead in Business"

If you are a college man in your twenties or thirties or forties, who realizes that the larger prizes in business go to those who prepare themselves to grasp them, the Alexander Hamilton Institute is for you; you will find an appeal in its practical character, and in its fine application of scholarship to business. If you are an older man, to whom young men turn for advice, you owe it to them to familiarize yourself with an Institution that has helped 95,000 men to larger success. A 112-page book has been published to tell the story of the Institute. It is full of interest, and it is free. It is called "Forging Ahead in Business." Send for your copy today.

"Stimulating and Refreshing in the Extreme"

THREE REMARKABLE BOOKS

BY GEORGE FREDERICK GUNDELFINGER, PH.D.

"A Pessimistic Carlyle-in-Miniature"

THE ICE LENS (Drama). $1.25 Postpaid

TEN YEARS AT YALE (Essays). $1.10 Postpaid

THE NEW FRATERNITY (Fiction). $1.50 Postpaid

We are bringing Mr. Gundelfinger's books to the attention of the readers of this particular periodical because we have not only been assured in advance that the "advertiser's message will be read," but have also been told that it will be read by "leaders in thought and action."

Mr. Gundelfinger's books are not being read by those "loyal" and popular Yale graduates who attend reunions regularly in order to indulge repeatedly in the degrading dissipations of their college days and who occasionally deposit a check in the Alumni Fund and then feel that they have done their bit for their Alma Mater,—But they have been read by several hundred "disloyal" alumni who are doing their utmost for the salvation, betterment and progress of Yale even though this involve the sacrifice of certain stagnant traditions which give the place that mellowness which precedes decay and in which the average graduate takes that pride which goeth before a fall.

For a college or a university may encourage among its graduates a "loyalty" which is just as showy and unrighteous as was the "patriotism" of the German Empire. But an Alma Mater, like a Fatherland, may also have given birth to some sons whose thoughts are in advance of those of their easy-going brothers—sons who foresee impending calamities—sons who have salutary dreams, but who lack the courage which would bring them to pass—sons who are unconsciously awaiting the shocks that will arouse them into doing and daring.

Mr. Gundelfinger's books were the shocks that aroused Yale. "The most sensational and amazing arraignment of Yale or any other university ever published." The fact that the Yale Alumni Weekly declined to advertise, review or even refer to these books did not intercept the transmission of these shocks to Yale's "leaders in thought" who, after reading them, were immediately transformed into "leaders in action." This trilogy has worked and is working regenerative revolutions at the university; they have been the stimulus behind and the prophecy before the Great Post-Bellum Reconstruction recently voted by the Yale Corporation.

However, these books were not written for Yale men only; they were written because Mr. Gundelfinger went to college—not because he went to Yale. Despite the "distinguishing characteristics" claimed by various educational institutions, all colleges and universities are alike in that they have the same faults irrespective of their peculiar virtues. Mr. Gundelfinger has concentrated on DEFECTS in the modern academic world, and it is for this reason that his books should be and will be read by "leaders in thought" at ALL places of higher learning in America. There is, to be sure, nothing new about his subject-matter; it is his unique style which makes his books "conspicuous for their absence in the threadbare literature of education." Whether he uses the drama, the essay or the novel as medium he not only courageously opens the shutters on those deplorable conditions which all thinking alumni have observed and pondered over, but he focuses the light in such a way that it cannot fail to inflame dormant thinkers EVERYWHERE and impregnate them with the activities of reform and reconstruction.

Lack of space prevents us from reprinting here all the unsolicited endorsements, positive and negative, which have been received from college presidents, officers, professors, alumni, undergraduates, editors, and book-reviewers all over the United States,—but we will gladly mail copies on request.

"Educationally the decade that follows the war will be, I believe, the richest and most fruitful in the nation's history."

THESE PROPHETIC WORDS, written by the late Edward Kidder Graham while America was still at war, relate to today—the college year 1919-1920—to this very moment when North Carolina stands confronted with the problem of building its civilization upon sound, permanent foundations and when the South and the Nation, with newly opened channels of intercourse with the world at large, are planning for the complete fulfilment of their high mission among the nations.

THIS FRUITFUL DECADE, JUST AT THE QUADRENNIUM of the war now ended, calls insistently for the TRAINED LEADER.

THROUGH ITS NEWLY ESTABLISHED SCHOOL OF COMMERCE, its School of Engineering, and other schools and departments, the University offers the thoroughgoing, complete training for the sort of leadership which the new day requires.

COURSES ARE OFFERED IN BUSINESS ORGANIZATION AND MANAGEMENT, Accounting, Foreign Trade, Banking, Transportation, Political Economy, Business Law, Electrical Engineering, Chemical Engineering, Highway Engineering, Soil Investigation, Law, Medicine, Pharmacy, Journalism, Social Science, Government, Education, Music, and all subjects embraced in the College of Liberal Arts, the School of Applied Science, the Graduate School, and the Summer School.

Instruction through correspondence courses on a wide choice of subjects may be secured at low cost through the Bureau of Extension.
